

New 7th Edition APA Citation Guide

APA style format can be complex. For more information, please refer to the official APA Guide (found in your campus library) or consult with your instructor or campus librarian. Also, pay attention to punctuation, italics, spacing, and the hanging indent. Your reference page should also be double spaced.

Common Electronic Sources

Some electronic citations necessitate the use of brackets. APA style dictates that brackets should directly surround their content without spaces (e.g., [bracketed content] should look like this). When possible, include the year, month, and date in references. If the month and date are not available, use the year of publication. Additionally, APA 7th edition no longer requires the use of “Retrieved from” before URLs or DOIs.

Please note: Because online materials can potentially change URLs, APA recommends providing a Digital Object Identifier (DOI), when it is available, as opposed to the URL. DOIs are an attempt to provide stable, long-lasting links for online articles. They are unique to their documents and consist of a long alphanumeric code. Many—but not all—publishers will provide an article's DOI on the first page of the document. APA 7 also advises writers to include a DOI (if available), even when using the print source. The correct format for a DOI is <https://doi.org/xxxxx>. If an online scholarly journal article has no DOI and is published on a website, include the URL. If an online scholarly article has no DOI and is published on a database, do not include a URL or any database information. The only exception is for databases that publish articles that are in limited circulation (like ERIC) or that are only available on that particular database (like UpToDate). You should also include the date that you accessed the article. DOIs may not always be available. In these cases, use a URL. Many academic journals provide stable URLs that function similarly to DOIs. These are preferable to ordinary URLs copied and pasted from the browser's address bar.

Video From Films on Demand or YouTube	NOTE: Video and audio sources need to be documented using the same basic guidelines for citing print sources in APA style. Include as much descriptive information as necessary to help readers understand the type and nature of the source you are citing. If the author's name is the same as the uploader, only cite the author once. If the author is different from the uploader, cite the author's name before the title. Films on Demand Format:  Title of film [Video file]. (Publication date).
